

Alexandre Laudet, M.D., Ph.D.

Alexandre B. Laudet, M.D., Ph.D., is Director, Center for the Study of Addictions and Recovery at the National Development and Research Institutes, Inc. My understanding of addiction recovery has been profoundly influenced by the recovery studies Dr. Laudet and I have conducted together in New York City. She is a true champion of recovery and recovery-focused research. To illustrate her contributions, I have included one of her monographs and the slides from one of her recent presentations. Additional papers by Dr. Laudet can be found at <http://www.google.com/profiles/AlexandreLaudet>

William White